

From: Nierop, Dirk

Sent: Tuesday, 29 August 2006 6:47 AM

To: 'editor@manlydaily.com.au'

Cc: 'raghavank@dailitelegraph.com.au'; 'newsdesk@smh.com.au'; 'news@sundaytelegraph.com.au'; 'newidea@pacificmags.com.au'; 'feed@theaustralian.com.au'; 'tcnnewsroom@nine.com.au'; 'tvnews@news.abc.net.au'; 'tencos1@networkten.com.au'; 'cos@sbs.com.au'; 'palnet@police.nsw.gov.au'; 'contactus@pic.nsw.gov.au'; 'complaints@pic.nsw.gov.au'; 'customerassistance@police.nsw.gov.au'; 'Lucia Abdipranoto'

Subject: How they thought they could get away with it/the final piece if the jigsaw

RE: Dirk Nierop vs D.Y Police

To whom it may concern

And without due and proper respect,

Now the final piece of the puzzle has become apparent. Now I know why you have not wanted anything to do with this. Now I know how the police thought they could get away with it. How they knew that they could ignore the obvious truth, not talk to any of the hundred or so witnesses to Shane Bullocks unprovoked attack, including 3 men of unquestioned integrity (the 3 top floor security officers), repeatedly ignore the barman who was in the middle of the brawl (with a statement the night it happened and 2 further times by phone), and repeatedly ignore my valid protestations; on the night of the attack when I went to great pains to inform an inspector and 2 uniform female police officers to my unprovoked attack, and at the station when I was arrested when I again went to great pains to explain my assault (Doctors certificate and witnesses in my phone).

Now, on the second back page of the biggest day for your paper (Saturday), who have idolised this leader of a group of thugs. Your true colours have been shown. The police could not charge this local footy hero with assault, he would lose his military pension. The police wanted to send him into a comfortable retirement with a nice juicy payout from the millionaire Hotel owner and up to $750,000 in civil proceedings against a powerful and respected security company.

The police thought that they could use their despicable trickery to totally drain me of funds and the will to fight-(tactics all there on the TAPE.) I wonder if in this triangular conspiracy, were you were going to divide the spoils? This was supposed to be an easy setup. A dumb bouncer who would have no choice but to be dragged through the courts and even if they could not make the big charge stick, they had the back up one to ensure guilt so as to pave the way for civil claims. They were banking on my pleading guilty to the lower charge (as so many have before me, due to lack of funds), so as to get me out of the game and to still leave the way open for Shane to get the cash. You and the police have been caught red handed, and I am going to prove it. I wasn't supposed to set an Australian precedent (regaining my licence), I wasn't supposed to get credibility with the Ombudsman and the PIC. I am proud to live in this great land where there are checks and balances, otherwise, we would have a police state. You, the local media, have a role in the checks and balances, but I forgot about the cronyism and nepotism of a tight nit community that has been gradually established between the Manly Daily, the local footy and the police. The harder I fought back, the dirtier and more blatant the police became with their despicable personal attacks on me and the limitless attacks on my company. (particulars all available on the tape), Still thinking that they could steamroll me into submission. Even right up to their flimsy attempt at a final whitewash they thought that they could still get away with it. How so very wrong they were and are, and it will lead to the complete restructuring of this moral less, ethic less, blatantly corrupt police station.

Sir,

Myself and a large part of the community have lost faith in your paper and D.Y. police

May god have mercy on you because I wont

Sincerely yours